

THE UNICORN'S SECRET!

Landmarks of Chester

Chester was first established as a Roman fortress and town, known as Deva Victrix, in about AD 74 or 75 and has some impressive landmarks including the Cathedral, Cross and Eastgate Clock. Within The Hole In Wand Chester, you will visit and explore these landmarks as well as learn of the Cheshire Myth; 'The Wizard of Alderley Edge'.

Chester Cathedral. This incredible structure, founded in 1092 as a Benedictine Abbey, was subsequently rebuilt around 1250 and took 275 years to transform the building into the stunning Gothic-style building standing today. Chester Cathedral has the most complete set of monastic buildings in the country, which includes a Georgian square and series of streets, the remains of Roman barracks on the Dean's field and the largest open green spaces within the walls.

The Eastgate Clock is a turret clock built above the Eastgate of the ancient Roman walls of Chester. Although the original gate was Roman, the present gate was built in Georgian times to allow coaches through. However, the clock wasn't added until the Victorian era to celebrate Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee. The clock was designed by the architect John Douglas. The whole structure, gateway and clock, was designated as a Grade I listed building on 28 July 1955.
